NEW WITNESS MAY PROVE MILDRED SULLIVAN ALIVE

HOULTON, Me., Oct. 6.—The trial of Dr. Lionel E. Dudley and the three young women accused with him in connection with the mysterious case of Mildred Sullivan, "the prettiest girl in Aroostock County," opened this afternoon in the local court. The courtroom was jammed to the doors with men, women and girls.

There was a sensation when it was learned that a Mrs. Hodge, a resident of Caribou, had furnished the defence with an important clew in the mystery. Mrs. Hodge, whose full name has been withheld, told Attorney Jerome C. Clark of Presque Isle, that a young man called at her house in Caribou on the evening of Friday, September 4, accompanied by a young girl who was very ill. The description of the girl, it is said, tallies with that of the missing girl.

The story voluntarily told by Mrs. Hodge caused a flurry. She and another young woman came all the way from Caribou in the morning train to make known the facts to counsel for the accused doctor and young women.

Mrs. Hodge's statement still further complicates the case and has increased the doubt held by many that Mildred Sullivan is dead.

Mrs. Hodge said:

"On the evening of Friday, September 4, the day Mildred Sullivan is reported to have disappeared from Presque Isle, a young man called at my house and arranged to hire a room. With him was a young girl, whose appearance was strikingly similar to the description of the Sullivan girl published by the newspapers.

"I only had one room and that had been spoken for, but I agreed to let the young couple have it. Much to my surprise they didn't come back that night, as agreed, and I remember the date and incident because I lost also the first parties on account of changing arrangements for the young fellow and the sick girl."

Caribou is fifteen miles north of Presque Isle.

MOTHER PROSTRATED.

While the trial was on there came word that Mrs. George Sullivan, the missing girl's mother, and summoned as a witness, was prostrated by her great grief. Her condition was said to be critical.

This news cast an air of sadness over the spectators, most of whom knew the Sullivan family well. Interest in the case was so keen that hundreds have arrived here from all parts of the country.

The trial was scheduled to start at 10. At that hour counsel held a conference in the judge's lobby. At 10:30 County Attorney Bernard Archibald entered the courtroom and made a motion that the case be put over until 2 o'clock.

CALLS FOR DAUGHTER.

"This is at the request of counsel for the defence," said Mr. Archibald. "As most of the witnesses have been coming in late, counsel desired to talk with them, and hence asked this delay. It will expedite matters in the postponement is made until this afternoon."

Judge Carroll granted the motion. Mrs. Sullivan is suffering from a

SAVE 60 HORSES AT BIG FIRE

Sixty horses were rescued with difficulty and the lives of firemen were repeatedly endangered by falling slate and blinding smoke at a fire which started about 2 a. m. today in the five-story brick building at No. 91 West Dedham street, South End.

The building was occupied by a number of livery companies, including L. D. Johnson, the Draper Hall stable, the Thorndike stable and the Dillon Livery Company.

When the firemen arrived dense clouds of smoke were pouring from all the upper windows, the flames having started in the top story where several tons of hay were stored. Employes succeeded in getting all the horses out. A number of valuable livery rigs were also saved.

The flames spread to the roof of a nearby dwelling house, and Chief McDonough ordered all the adjacent roofs wet down.

Ernest Shaughnessey of the S. S. Hosden Company stables rescued ten horses when the building filled with smoke.

Captain James E. Driscoll of the East Dedham Street Police Station was in charge of the reserves called out to rope off the street. Street cars were ordered diverted from Tremont street during the progress of the fire.

The building which the flames destroyed formerly was the famous old Draper Hall Riding Academy, and in the 60's and 70's was the resort of the elite of the Back Bay.

Chief John McDonough said: "The building was very old and was condemned as unsafe years ago. It was this knowledge that made me forbid the firemen to enter the place when the flames were at their height."

While the fire was at its height the roof collapsed and thirty-five men barely escaped with their lives. Chief McDonough has just received the warning order when the roof fell.

The damage is estimated at $20,000.

MOOSE FOR CITY MARKETS

The Progressive platform, presented at the State convention of the party today in Faneuil Hall, pledges the Bull Moosers for nation-wide prohibition, equal suffrage, a short ballot, for giving cities the power to establish necessaries of life to prevent extortionate prices, the immediate establishment of free public markets, the substitution of arbitration and conciliation laws for war, creation of a commission to investigate courts and court procedure, and the holding of a referendum on the question of State ownership of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Joseph Walker was warmly greeted by the delegates. His address rapped the G. O. P. and amalgamation, attacked the New Haven road and inferentially slammed Norman H. White for his desertion of the Progressive ball Saturday when he went over to the Republican fold.

"The Republican party has forfeited the allegiance of all but out-and-out standpatters," he declared. "I am still fighting the Progressive fight."

PUBLIC IS EXCLUDED.

There was much comment among the delegates over the decision of the Progressives to exclude the public from the convention. Those behind the action explained they expected so many delegates they felt that room would not remain for spectators.

Among those invited on the platform were Mrs. James B. Connolly, Mrs. Richard Washburn Child and Mrs. Louis Agassiz Shaw.

The convention was called to order by Acting Chairman Arthur W. Gilkey of the State Committee. Committees were then appointed. Representative George P. Webster of Boxford was scheduled for election as temporary chairman, and H. Bonetin Newton of Everett as permanent chairman.

The platform committee consisted of Senator Charles E. Borbonia, George W. Coleman and Arthur M. Hodges. Here are some of the principal planks:

We pledge to the men, women and children of the Commonwealth our allegiance to the following principles and policies:

A non-partisan tariff commission, avoiding thereby the hoisting of commissioners by the special privilege tariff boss of the Republican party and the discrimination and injustice brought about by the ill considered tariff revision of the Democratic party.

Regulation of the trusts. Restoration of competition by effective control rather than by ineffective governmental prosecution.

Conservation and development of our natural resources in the interests of all, and not of the favored few.

Initiative and referendum.

Equal suffrage.

Short ballot, concentration of executive power and authority in the Governor.

Separation of national from State issues, by means of biennial State elections in the odd years.

Recall for all elected officials whose terms exceed a single year.

Half-time work and half-time schooling for children over fourteen years of age.

One day's rest in seven for all workers and the three-shift system in continuous industries.

NATION-WIDE PROHIBITION.

We favor the submission to the States of the so-called Sheppard-Hobson amendment to the National Constitution, providing for nation-wide prohibition. The regulation of the liquor traffic is a vital question, and one is better understood by the people. The Progressive party stands for the decision of such questions by the referendum to the people. We favor national prohibition.

Demand for World Court of Justice By Progressives

We stand for the substitution of law for war, and to that end we stand for a real international court of justice, where disputes may be heard and decided, and a real international parliament where international questions may be discussed and settled. We stand for military armaments for police duty only.—Peace plank in Progressive platform.

EXTEND FIGHTING LINE ALMOST TO BELGIAN BORDER

The Battle of the Aisne is a draw. This was frankly admitted at the British War Office today, according to cable dispatches to the AMERICAN from London The battle, it is admitted, has resulted in a deadlock in which neither side appears able to gain any material advantage. Out of the battle, however, has developed the campaign of Seven Rivers, that bids fair to rival that of the Duke of Wellington in 1810-11, and that of General Grant in 1864-65. Both Wellington and Grant were ultimately able to compel their opponents, Marshal Massena and General Lee, respectively, to retreat, but they did not accomplish this by any brilliant feat of arms in a single battle.

Their success was due primarily to the steady pressure exerted upon the opposing armies and the continual repulse of attacks aimed to relieve this pressure.

That a similar program is being followed by the allies in France is the opinion expressed by the London War Office. It is admitted that occasionally the Germans make gains, but they do this with sacrifices that steadily lessen their powers of resistance. On account of the immense strength of the Kaiser's war machine, the campaign of the allies must resolve itself into a steady exertion of pressure against all sides of the German army, pushing it back slowly until the nerve of the invaders is broken.

The Foreign Office in London issued this statement on the situation up to midnight:

"The battle continues with great violence on our left wing to the north of the Oise. No decisive result has yet been reached. At certain points we had to yield ground. Along the remainder of the front no change is reported."

The furious battle around the German right wing in the conflict of the Aisne has developed, apparently, into a struggle of the allies and the invaders to outflank each other.

The Paris official statement, issued at 3 p. m. today, says the battle front on the left wing of the allies is continually growing longer, and that large masses of German cavalry have been reported in the environs of Lille, which is only ten miles from the Belgian border.

The French official report further says that the British, in co-operation, have made a slight progress on the right bank of the Aisne, north of Soissons. At this point the allies are trying to drive a wedge between the German right flank and centre.

GERMANS STORM ANTWERP.

Berlin's official statement of the general situation today says that the German armies in France are making a steady advance on both wings of the battle line, continually forcing the allies

CHUM TELLS OF GIRL'S DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Miss Virginia Reed of No. 11 Gleason street, Dorchester, who was injured in the Canton auto accident in which her chum, Miss Marguerite Dooley, a third-year Dorchester High School student, lost her life, today told the story of how it happened. She said:

"Last night shortly after supper Roland Lloyd Smith of Everett and C. M. Colstead of Atlantic, friends of poor Marguerite, called at the house. Mr. Colstead was driving the car which Mr. Smith owned. I was the guest of Marguerite.

"When we went for a ride Marguerite sat in front beside Mr. Colstead and I was in the rear beside Mr. Smith.

"We drove out to Canton and were crossing the car tracks on our way home when the machine tipped. This threw me over Mr. Smith's head onto the car tracks. I was doubled up like a ball and before I rolled off the tracks out of danger.

"I heard Marguerite scream and my first thought was for her safety. I started back for the car and saw the electric car bearing down on the overturned auto. Mr. Colstead stood in the tracks, unmindful of the danger and trying to save Marguerite. The electric car hit him, injuring his left arm badly. I tried to do something for Marguerite. I could see her mangled body under the machine. I then became dazed."

Miss Dooley was the daughter of Harry Dooley of No. 116 Greenwood street, Dorchester, a well known Boston stock broker. Mr. and Mrs. Dooley have been in Greenfield, New Hampshire, for a short vacation and did not learn of the accident until early this morning.

HOGAN FAMILY WOULD TAKE THE NAME HOMANS

Robert Homans, Back Bay lawyer, clubman and member of a family that in this country dates back to the seventeenth century, has repulsed the Hogans in their attempt to adopt the name Homans name, which is represented by but three families in the Boston Blue Book. Edward J. Hogan, leader of the six Hogans, said today that as a result of Mr. Homans' opposition in the Probate Court the Hogans would make a truce and be called Homan, omitting the "S." If the court authorizes.

Mr. Homans, Harvard man and member of the Somerset, Tavern, Union, Exchange and Tennis and Racket clubs, wanted the Homans representation in the Boston directory kept at its present exclusive ten. The Hogans have been listed in the Medford directory. Recently some of them moved to Westland avenue, Back Bay, and this began the invasion of the niche occupied by that exclusive Back Bay name—Homans.

ENTER SIX HOGANS.

The Hogans, Edward J., Edward O., Edward W., Mary L., Gladys and Mrs. Edward J.—six, count them, six—wanted to change their names for "social and business reasons," their petition said.

Some of the Hogans wanted a Blue Book touch added while their names are being changed. They are ready to tell the engravers to make their cards read "Mailes- Homan."

Here are the original requests for changes as contained in the petitions, said to be the most unusual of their kind on record in this county:

Edward J. Hogan, clothing salesman, birthplace St. John's, N. F., has taken out first naturalization papers—wanted to be Edward J. Homans.

Edward O. Hogan, workman, desired to be Osborne Mailes' Homans.

Herbert W. Hogan, bank clerk, petitioned to become Warren Mailes-Homans.

Mary L. Hogan sought to be known as Louise Mailes-Homans.

Gladys Hogan asked to be changed to Gladys Mailes-Homan.

Only Mrs. Edward J. Hogan is not included in the list, because she would automatically become Mrs. Homans if the petitions were to be granted. Whether or not she would prefer to be Mrs. Mailes-Homan is not recorded.

SCORE ONE FOR HOGANS.

If the Hogans become Homan they still come before Homans in the directory, while Hogans are first.

While the Hogan family does not rival the well-known South clan, there are plenty of Hogans in the city directory. As for Homans, there are but ten. Among those who don't live in the Back Bay are:

Homans, Herbert W., teamster, boards at Dorchester.

Homans, J. Frank, salesman, boards at Medford.

Homans, William H., oiler at City Hospital, house at Malden.

Homans, William T., salesman, boards at No. 164 Beacon street.

Robert Homans is a director of the National Shawmut Bank and the other financial interests. His wife was Abigail Adams, a descendant of John Adams.

THE HOMANSES AND THE HOGANS.

Mrs. Charles D. Homans (Elizabeth Lothrop), the Lindaw, Mrs. John Homans (Helen Perkins), New Riding Club, No. 164 Beacon.

Misses Katherine A., Helen and Marion J., No. 164 Beacon.

William P. Homans, Tennis and Racquet, Union Boat, University of New York and Harvard Clubs, No. 164 Beacon.

Dr. and Mrs. John A. Homans (Alice F. Knapp), Union Boat, Tennis and Racquet, and Harvard Clubs, No. 39 Bellevue, Longwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Homans (Abigail Adams), Somerset, Norfolk Hunt, Exchange and Harvard Clubs, No. 256 Beacon.

Edward J. Hogan, clothing salesman, birthplace St. John's, N. F., has taken out first naturalization papers—wants to be Edward J. Homans.

Edward O. Hogan, workman—desires to be Osborne Mailes-Homans.

Herbert W. Hogan, bank clerk, petitions to become Warren Mailes-Homans.

Mary L. Hogan—seeks to be known as Louise Mailes-Homans.

Gladys Hogan—asks to be changed to Gladys Mailes-Homan.

VOTE ON NEW CHARTER TODAY AT NORWOOD

The town of Norwood is today voting on the acceptance of a new charter which gives the mayor much more power to appoint a town manager for the several departments and reduces the number of offices. The meeting is in Everett Hall, the polls opening at noon and closing at 8 o'clock.

For weeks many rallies have been held. If the town votes to accept the charter, Norwood will be the first town in the state to depend upon its affairs with a general manager.

The act takes effect upon its acceptance by a majority of the voters. The next annual meeting will be held on the third Monday of January, 1915.

The new charter provides for the election of five Selectmen, two for three years, two for two years and one for one year. The Selectmen shall also act as overseers of the poor, surveyors of the town, highway, water, sewer and park commissioners, municipal light board and tree wardens, all of these offices to be abolished. The Selectmen are to appoint a town manager.

The voters will also elect a finance board of three who are to serve without pay. All elected officers may be recalled by the filing of a petition signed by two hundred voters.

Taken to Hospital After War Dispute

Senna was sent to the City Hospital. Perry is a Station 6.

Commerce Men Teach Farming in Night Schools

Home farming and gardening in Boston and vicinity will boom as a result of the evening classes in agriculture and horticulture inaugurated by the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The office of Lloyd H. Haynes, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who is making arrangements for the classes, was literally swamped with inquiries yesterday and today.

"I never dreamt there was so much interest in farming among the people of Boston and the urban districts," said Mr. Haynes. "I have been on the limb answering inquiries ever since the announcement of the classes. The back-to-the-farm movement should receive fresh impetus as a result."

The classes will be conducted by professors from the Massachusetts Agricultural College and will be held Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, beginning October 13. A nominal fee will be charged.

There will be six courses of lectures, to wit: Soils, field crops, fruit growing, flower growing, poultry husbandry and vegetable growing. The speakers will include Professors Hartwell McDonald, Conaway, Nehring, Thompson and Graham.

Metz Co. Protests War Tax on Autos

The Metz Automobile Company of Waltham has just sent the following telegram to Senators Weeks and Lodge at Washington, protesting against the proposed war revenue tax on automobiles: "Our output for automobiles for the next twelve months will be over 250,000 horsepower, sold mainly to persons of moderate means for economic purposes. Any material tax would paralyze our business."

SPIRITUALISTS IN CONVENTION PRAY FOR PEACE

Fifteen hundred spiritualists prayed today for peace at the opening of the twenty-second annual convention of the National Spiritualists' Association in Musicians' Hall, Back Bay.

This morning's session was largely given up to business. An effort will be made at this convention to have all spiritualists properly registered. A board of examiners will be appointed and those considered by this board as duly equipped for work as spiritualists will be registered and commended to others. This is the first organized effort among the spiritualists to get rid of some who use the name, but must hereafter be discredited until they have passed the examination by the committee.

Coffee Hurt You?

No need to get mad now, tear up the paper, or shout "nonsense, good coffee never hurt anyone."

You know better than that, for you can point out all around you folks who are the worse for coffee's slugging.

Think over a few coffee-drinking friends and casually enquire if they are entirely and perfectly well and just how coffee treats them.

If it hurts others isn't it just possible—?

Catch the drift, don't you?

In fact after having studied the matter a bit it will become plain that if you are a coffee-drinker the chances are that some form of indigestion or perhaps fixed organic disease due to coffee has set in, headache, biliousness, constipation, nervousness, sleeplessness, heart flutter or others of the well-proven coffee ills. One can refuse to look the thing squarely in the face and peg along with the coffee.

Some day Nature will haul him up short.

It's a Poor Bargain

to swap health and a clear, business-like head for a few cups of coffee each day.

Every coffee toper tries to wiggle round and charge his aches and ills to weather, overwork, too much or too little food, this, that or the other thing, but how he hates to admit that the real enemy is his Master, coffee.

A Sure Personal Test

will locate the exact cause of your steady destruction of health, if that cause be coffee. It's worth knowing the plain, sober fact before organic heart trouble or other disease sets in, which perhaps cannot be cured.

The test is pleasant, accurate and satisfying—

Quit coffee absolutely for ten days and in its place use POSTUM.

Postum now comes in two forms. Regular Postum must be boiled. Instant Postum—soluble form made in the cup instantly, with hot water. Both kinds of this delicious food-drink have the color and flavour very much like the high grades of Old Govt Java.

If in a few days you begin to sleep soundly at night, digest your food better, stomach and bowels show signs of recovery, or the old feeling of weakness at the heart leaves, or head works clearer, (the ills of coffee drugging are multitudinous) the facts will be before you, and

You Have the Answer—

BOSTON MEN TO PROTEST AUTO TAX AT CAPITAL

A committee composed of three members of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, following a meeting of protest against the proposed war tax on automobiles, will leave Boston tonight for Washington to urge and to do everything possible to defeat the measure.

More than 150 members of the association met today at the Hotel Lenox, where a discussion took place on the war tax proposition. Arthur Hirsch, president of the association, presided. Chester L. Campbell was secretary.

After a conference a committee was named, composed of John H. Johnson, chairman; John W. Maguire and John F. Donovan. They will represent the Boston dealers in Washington.

Chester L. Campbell is also sending today a telegram to every automobile dealers' association in America, urging each and every one to protest against the bill in its present form. It also states the proposition that they in turn send a delegation to Washington. If all the associations send representatives the meeting at the White House will be a large one.

If the proposed war tax on machines goes through the owners of automobiles in this State will be taxed five times—gasoline, government tax on manufacturers to consumers, emergency war tax, State tax registration and personal property tax.

Many dealers in this city alone have on hand new and second-hand cars—sometimes thirty or forty. This means, if the bill goes through, that they will have to pay a tax of between $35 and $40 on each car.

The headquarters of the Boston delegation at Washington will be at the New Willard.

MRS. JAMES TAYLOR, JR., who was Miss Ida White of Attleboro, and who eloped in her mother's auto.

MOTHER WAITS FOR ELOPING ATTLEBORO GIRL

ATTLEBORO, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Josephine White of Park avenue is waiting today the homecoming of her daughter Ida, who eloped to her mother's own automobile with James Taylor, Jr., and got married in New York.

Young Taylor is sort of worried about coming back home, it is understood. He is not sure of his reception.

The girl in the case—Miss White as was, Mrs. Taylor is junior—is twenty years old and an impulsive and original young lady. Last Thursday afternoon, she asked her mother for the use of the automobile, saying she was going to Providence to the theatre "with Jimmie." She and young Taylor were known to be the best of friends, but the parents had objected to any formal engagement, because both young folks were so young.

Mrs. White, gladly loaned the automobile, and the two departed. When they did not return, Mrs. White investigated and found that for a mere trip to the matinee, Ida had taken along quite a lot of clothing and baggage. While she was still puzzling over this a telegram came from the girl, confessing that she and young Taylor had been married in New York.

Mrs. Raymond Embon, a sister of the bride, started at once for New York to bring the young folks home.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant, and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter and just try it. —ADVERTISEMENT.

GERMANS CLAIM NEW SUCCESSES IN FRANCE

back and extending the lines of entrenchments, at some points a distance of fifteen miles.

It is also asserted that the Germans are again advancing on their left, and have proceeded as far as the Meuse. In the centre of the great battle line the artillery duel continues.

The most desperate fighting in the entire European war area today is taking place at Antwerp, according to official reports.

The German troops are engaged in hand-to-hand conflict with the Belgian defenders.

While the Berlin War Office states that a breach has been made in the fortifications of the city, and the attacking lines are being drawn more closely about it, the Belgian War office declares that the Germans have been repulsed.

"The enemy is trying to take by storm the defences that his artillery had failed to destroy," says the Belgian statement.

NEW ATTACK BY RENNENKAMPF.

As to the situation in the Eastern theatre of war, the reports, as usual, are conflicting. The Germans today say that their success in the Eastern arena has met with no check and that they are continuing to advance.

Berlin hears that the advance guards of the main Russian and Austrian armies are already in conflict along the Vistula, and that the supreme battle of the Eastern campaign is imminent.

Petrograd official reports say that the troops of General Rennenkampf are attacking the fortified German positions extending over a front of sixty miles from Wirballen, Russian Poland, to Lyck, East Prussia.

The Germans, it is maintained, are in serious straits in these positions, as other Russian forces advancing from the government of Lomza are pressing upon the Germans' right wing and threatening to get to their rear through the Mazurian Lake region.

The Paris Matin prints the following today under a Petrograd date:

"The official estimate of the German losses at Angustowo, Suwalki and Marjampol is 100,000. The Russian capture of Soldau is confirmed."

GAINS NORTH OF SOISSONS, ALLIES OFFICIALLY REPORT

PARIS, Oct. 6—The official statement, issued at 2 p. m. today, follows:

OFFICIAL.

French Coat of Arms.

On our left wing the front is becoming more and more extended. Some German cavalry forces of very large size have been reported in the environs of Lille, advancing before forces of the enemy which are making a movement through the region to the north of the line of Turcoing-Armentieres.

Around Arras and on the right bank of the Somme the situation is unchanged. Between the Somme and the Oise there have been alternative advances and recoils.

Near Lassigny the enemy attempted a fierce attack which failed.

On the right bank of the Aisne at the north of Soissons we have advanced slightly with the cooperation of the British army.

We have likewise made some progress in the region of Berry-au-Bac. On the rest of the front there is nothing to report.

In the Belgium theatre of war the Belgian forces which are defending Antwerp have occupied in strength the line from the Rupel to the Nethe, against which the German attacks have failed.

GERMAN RETREAT CONTINUES ON PRUSSIAN LINE, SAYS PETROGRAD

PETROGRAD, Oct. 6—The following statement was issued at midnight:

OFFICIAL.

Russian Coat of Arms.

The German retreat continues on the front of eastern Prussia. The Germans are endeavoring to hold their fortified positions along the east Prussian frontier from Wirballen to Lyck.

Russian troops up to October 3, had captured 1,600 German troops and several pieces of artillery, one of which was mounted on an automobile, and also a number of ammunition wagons, automobiles and motor cycles.

Russian military experts say a battle of 2,000,000 men, between their own and Austro-German forces is near at Cracow. They believe that if the German-Austrian army is defeated at Cracow the war will be virtually over. Granted this defeat, they declare there will then be no sufficient forces left to stem the Russian invasion of Silesia and thence to Breslau and Berlin, as well as the Russian advance through Cracow to Vienna, and through Transylvania to Budapest.

ALLIES DRIVEN BACK ON LEFT AND RIGHT, BERLIN DECLARES

BERLIN, Oct. 6, via Amsterdam.—An official statement issued at midnight says:

OFFICIAL.

German Coat of Arms.

Fighting continues night and day, particularly on our right wing, where the enemy is stubbornly resisting our offensive. He is being driven back, however.

Our intrenchments have been extended fifteen miles at some points. On Sunday night the enemy made a particularly sharp attack in an attempt to surprise us and severe fighting ensued for six hours. He was repulsed and forced to retire in haste to escape being cut off. The aerial scouts have been of great value in learning the movements of the enemy. On our left wing we have again advanced to the Meuse. In the centre the artillery duel continues. The situation in general indicates that a decisive result is not yet at hand.

As a result of the breach made in the fortifications of Antwerp our lines and artillery have drawn closer about the city. The liner works are now being bombarded.

Our success in the eastern arena has met with no check. We continue to advance.

GERMANS TRYING TO TAKE ANTWERP FORTS BY STORM

OFFICIAL

ANTWERP, Oct. 6—An official statement by the Belgian War Office today, says:

Belgian Coat of Arms.

The enemy is trying to take by storm the defences that his artillery had failed to destroy, but we have repulsed every attempt to break our defence. The fighting was of a desperate character, several times, during the night our troops engaging in hand to hand struggles with their assailants. The Belgians won new glory by their heroic defence.

The fight fighting took place under the glare of searchlights operated by both armies. Those of the Belgians were mounted on the fortifications, while those of the Germans played from a number of balloons behind their attacking lines. Several times German aeroplanes attempted to fly over the city, but each attempt was met with a volley of bullets that drove the aviators to flight.

Reports were current here last night that King Albert had been seriously wounded by a bursting shell, but these were officially denied at the War Office.

If You Have Any Hair Trouble Read This

Men, women and children do not wash their hair and heads often enough. There has been a mistaken idea for years that frequent washing is bad for the hair. The result is that nearly everybody has more or less hair trouble. Practically everybody has dandruff, and hundreds have hair that is too oily or dry, or hair that is faded or lifeless.

The result of all these troubles is falling hair, and after that comes baldness.

If you will wash your head at least once a week with Birt's Head Wash, your hair will take on new vigor, simply because your scalp will be put in a clean, natural condition, so that your hair can have a chance to grow as it should.

Birt's Head Wash is made of Refined Creamy Soap, Cochin Cocoanut Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerin and Salicylic Acid. Any doctor will tell you this is a good formula.

Birt's Head Wash does not simply take off the dirt, dandruff and microbes from the hair, but it leaves the scalp soft and moist, and the hair fine and glossy. You can see an improvement in the condition of your hair the first time you use it, and dandruff will disappear in a short time. You will be astonished how many impurities will be found on your hair and head, because nothing takes them out like Birt's Head Wash.

Sold in 25c, hygienic tubes, at drug and dept. stores.

Hair That Is Streaked With Gray

Restored to the Original Color in from Four to Eight Days
25-Cent Trial Bottle Will Prove It

There is a way to restore gray hair in from four to eight days. A way to bring back the original color without making dangerous lead and sulphur dyes, so greasy and disagreeable.

Hair treated in this way is light, clean and fluffy. It can be washed and curled as usual.

To prove this send for a 25-cent trial bottle of Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer and use it on a lock of hair as directed. Watch the gray disappear and the color return and then decide if this is not a miracle worker for all gray-haired people.

Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer

is a pure colorless liquid, clear as water, and is as easy and dainty to use. Applied by simply combing it through your hair.

When sending for your trial package to be sure to tell exactly what color your hair was before turning gray. Say whether it was black, dark brown, medium brown or light brown. Better still, enclose a lock in your letter.

Send the 25 cents in stamps and you will get the trial bottle, and a special comb by return mail. The regular $1.00 size bottle can be bought at your druggist's or we will fill your order direct. (80)

SHORT OF ARTIFICIAL LEGS.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—England is short of German-made artificial eyes and legs, needed for the wounded who are pouring back from the front. They may have to be imported via America.

He Was Deaf

Astonishing Improvement in Hearing; Edward Gregory, Engineer, Gives Information Free.

An Engineer who had ear trouble for years finally became so deaf he could not hear the sound of a steam engine, bells or voices. After vainly seeking relief he was compelled to give up his position. His case seemed hopeless. His deafness was aggravated by head disturbances, dry catarrh, nervousness and despondency.

To the surprise of all, he began to hear and continued improving until he could listen to conversation, could hear a train at a distance and even the singing of birds in the trees. His head noises became tranquil. He got his position back again. This was no miracle; no surgery, no artificial sending devices, no electric apparatus, no loss of time. Whoever is becoming deaf can obtain particulars free by writing to Edward Gregory, 32 Tories Street, 25 A, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

complete nervous breakdown. Although subpoenaed, Mrs. Sullivan's doctor would not consent to her leaving bed. She has been lying a week in darkened room, sobbing and hysterical. Sympathetic neighbors have been unable to console her.

"If I only could be certain that Millie is alive or dead," the heartbroken mother keeps repeating. "This doubt is unbearable. It seems that I cannot stand it much longer. At times I have a feeling that I will see Millie again, that she will come home and that we shall all be happy and then everything grows dark and hopeless and in despair."

Faces as there plainly reflected the intense interest felt.

At the right of the thronged court room sat the witness delegation from Presque Isle, among them Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pelletier and brothers and sisters of Alice and Etta Pelletier, who with Kate G. Michaud, are charged with being accessories.

It was expected that Dr. H. A. Graves of Presque Isle would be one of the first witnesses. He, it is understood, will be asked to repeat a statement made to him by Mildred Sullivan when he was called to attend her and refused when his suspicions were aroused.

MRS. BREWER TO TESTIFY.

Mrs. Richard Brewer, who lives over a Presque Isle stream, may be called as a witness later. She reports she found a bundle containing several garments in the water near her home. The authorities are today dragging the stream for this bundle, as Mrs. Brewer did not recover it.

Dr. Dudley's counsel are expected to present an alibi defence. They claim his presence in Presque Isle on the night when the State claims he was there can be explained and that complete innocence of any criminal liability can be shown.

The defence is expected to argue that the State must either produce Mildred Sullivan or her body in order to be able to carry the case to the Grand Jury.

Dr. Dudley and the three girls are confident they will be released. From the first they have maintained a calm attitude, have joked about the whole matter, or have derided the officers who brought about their arrest.

Etta Pelletier, it was today believed, has a better chance of winning her freedom than the others. Both Alice and Etta Pelletier worked at a hotel all Summer. This hotel was near Portland, and although Alice Pelletier returned home before the Sullivan girl disappeared, it is said that Etta Pelletier did not come home to Presque Isle till after the girl had disappeared, and after the officials had taken up their investigation.

OFFER ALIBI FOR DEFENCE.

Etta Pelletier will bring forward alibi fact evidence that she should be released. Some believe the State officials may drop their case against her and hold the others.

Etta has talked less than any of the other prisoners since her arrest. On the train that brought them from from Boston, when Dr. Dudley, Alice Pelletier and Kate Michaud talked freely to an AMERICAN reporter, Etta Pelletier refused to have a word to say, except that her attorney had forbidden her talking.

Dr. Dudley will also make a strong fight for immediate release. His friends have been active since his arrest, and first-class counsel has been engaged in his behalf. Dr. Dudley's alibi defence will be based on the assertion that he was at a house party during the entire night when the Sullivan girl disappeared. Several witnesses are ready to testify to this point in his defence.

What defence Alice Pelletier and Kate Michaud will make beyond a general denial is still a mystery.

The State officials, on the other hand, make no secret of their confidence that all the persons under arrest will be held for the Grand Jury. Dr. Dudley is charged with being the principal and the others with being accessories, in illegal treatment of Miss Sullivan.

BELIEVES GIRL IS DEAD.

County Prosecutor Bernard Archibald, like the other State officials, is confident the girl is dead—in spite of the fact that the four people under arrest believe she is still alive in hiding to avoid notoriety. Mr. Archibald said today, discussing the mystery and the State's case against Dr. Dudley:

"We will present evidence which will conclusively prove that Dr. Dudley knows what became of Miss Sullivan's body, after she had died from the effects of illegal treatment.

He added: "This testimony will be an eye-opener for those who are counting on the hope that our case against the doctor is a weak one."

It is known that Ambrose Briggs, the young man held primarily responsible for Mildred Sullivan's disappearance, will be a principal witness for the State. He will testify, it is understood, that he made a certain visit to Dr. Dudley's office. The defence, in meeting this story, will not only seek to discredit Briggs, but will indicate and if possible prove that Briggs himself knows more than he has told about the girl's disappearance.

County Attorney Archibald has subpoenaed a number of Presque Isle people as witnesses. Some of these witnesses will tell, it is expected, of a midnight drive in which Dr. Dudley figured.

Other startling bits of testimony expected will be to the effect that Dr. Dudley borrowed $50 on the night Mildred Sullivan disappeared, and that in borrowing the money he said:

"I am mixed up in the case of a girl who got into trouble, and I want to get out of town."

The Sullivan girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan of Houlton, has now been missing just over a month. It was about September 1 that she went to Presque Isle to the fair. It was September 7, Thursday, that she called on Dr. Dudley. This is according to his story. She called at Dr. Graves the next day.

Peanuts Swell; Break Big Window

ATTLEBORO, Oct. 6.—Two large plate glass windows were blown out of the front of the Woolworth 5 and ten-cent store here, and the cause was—salted peanuts. The Virginia "goobers" had been packed into the window space. Moisture in the atmosphere made the peanuts swell and the result was that the plate glass was shattered and scattered to the street.

CITES FEARS OF MRS. MAWSON IN WILL FIGHT

Mrs. Bertha E. M. Cheney of No. 212 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester, who seeks to break the will of Mrs. Mamie E. Mawson, by whom she was adopted, resumed the stand in the Suffolk Court today and said Mrs. Mawson was very superstitious.

Mrs. Mawson willed $500 to Mrs. Cheney, and the balance of her $22,000 estate to others, and Mrs. Cheney alleges Mrs. Mawson was of unsound mind. Yesterday she testified that Mrs. Mawson willed much of her estate to dead people.

"She was very superstitious," Mrs. Cheney said today. She particularly dreaded Friday and the number 13. Once a maid was coming to work on Friday and Mrs. Cheney made her wait till the following day.

"One day I found Mrs. Mawson up in the attic, looking fixedly at a house across the way. I asked what she was doing. She answered, 'Oh, just looking at a house across the way.'

"She repeatedly telephoned to me for addresses she had forgotten.

"At the time the will was drawn, Mrs. Mawson was tired, thin, and did not seem able to sleep well for a year. Her eyes were listless.

"I never knew of many of these relatives of hers till I read of them in the will."

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

BOSTON FOOD FAIR ATTRACTS BIG CROWDS

The second day of the Domestic Science and Pure Food Exhibition at Mechanics Hall opened today with things running smoothly, and the different exhibits in apple-pie order for the stream of visitors who began to pour in as soon as the doors were opened.

The Cuban exhibit, designed to give some idea of Cuba's wealth and products, is ready today. The first shipment was ruined by a storm off Cape Hatteras, and a second shipment was made.

As a further proof of his endorsement of the Boston Domestic Science and Pure Food Exposition, Mayor Curley has decided to double the amount of the appropriation allotted to the Boston city exhibit.

The Mayor was enthusiastic over the display arranged by the various departments and made a thorough inspection of the various exhibits. He has decided as a result of his investigation to institute special days on which the several departments will conduct demonstrations of their activities for the benefit of similar departments in other cities throughout the State.

For instance, one day will be Public Works Department Day, to which the heads of Public Works Departments in all Massachusetts cities will be invited. This will be carried out until all of the Boston city departments are included.

Mayor Curley visited Mechanics Building yesterday and found time to visit the shooting booth, where he distinguished himself by making a perfect score, and also visited the Department of Weights and Measures, where he had himself weighed. Boston's first citizen tipped the scales at exactly 205.

One of the most popular features of the fair today was the moving picture film: "The Making of a Newspaper," many scenes from which were made in the AMERICAN office. The film itself presents a motion picture drama dealing with a popular news event, and the way the news is handled in the office. The AMERICAN photographers made the picture, and members of the AMERICAN staff acted their regular parts in the film.

Among the features which interested people who visited the fair today were the rest room conducted by the federation, under the direction of Mrs. James T. Cutler, the Red Cross exhibit, and the City Hospital exhibit.

Dr. Laura A. C. Hughes is in charge of the Red Cross exhibit. Elsie Burr and Miss L. P. Loring are her assistants. October 16 is to be Red Cross day.

Mrs. A. M. Hassock, who is in charge of a ward at the City Hospital, has charge of the City Hospital exhibit.

A feature of the daily lecture and demonstration in Paul Revere Hall by Miss Hanks, domestic science expert, is the award of cooked products which she prepares. Miss Hanks bakes ten cakes each day and women visitors are permitted to draw for them. The ladies who "took the cake" yesterday include:

Mrs. Lewis Framingham, Irving street; Mrs. Felker, Avon; Mrs. Master, Putnam street, East Boston; Mrs. C. W. Bennett, No. 156 Bowdoin street, Dorchester; Mrs. George Dearborn, No. 6 Helnch street, Winchester; Mrs. C. M. Darling, No. 113 Cushing avenue, Dorchester; Mrs. James Dillon, No. 28 Summer street, Dorchester; Mrs. F. W. Russell, No. 142 Walnut street, Somerville, and Mrs. Farrar, No. 1 Columbus square.

MRS. JAMES CUTLER, director of Clubwoman's Rest Room at the Boston Food Fair.

Were Using Street Without Permit

Samuel Spector and David Segal, owners of the apartment house at No. 492 Huntington avenue which was burned August 29, were accused in the Roxbury court today of occupying a part of the street without a permit. They were found guilty and the case was filed.

MORE MONEY IN CIRCULATION THAN IN 1913

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

At the beginning of this month raw cloth notes in circulation, including emergency currency, amounted to $3,930,880,000 more than on the same day a year ago, and per capita circulation of money in this country was $37.15, compared with $34.83 on October 1, 1913. There was nearly $75,000,000 more gold coin in circulation on October 1 this year, but the amount of gold certificates had decreased more than $160,000,000. On October 1 had the money in circulation in the United States, including gold and silver coin, certificates based on the same, subsidiary silver, treasury notes of 1890, United States and national bank notes, amounted to $3,-894,746,194, compared with $3,356,937,-123 on that date a year ago. There never was so much money per capita in this country as now.

While the Bank of England has more gold than ever, the Bank of France as much as when the war began, the Imperial Bank of Germany reports a gain of $10,069,750 in yellow metal within a week. Since the beginning of the year, including the $100,000,000 now being raised by a pool for the payment of the New York city loan, Europe has obtained $300,000,000 in gold from this country.

The gold pool committee is now prepared to sell cable transfers on London. Practically $98,000,000 has been pledged by banks for the fund. There may be a call at any time for the shipment of $25,000,000 to Ottawa. It is reported that better discounts are now being offered by London and there is more ready acceptance there of American finance bills.

President Hannaford of the Northern Pacific says business is good in the northwest.

Report of Albany reports for the last fiscal year that gross decreased $1,252,526 and net $714,926.

Chesapeake & Ohio earnings for the last fiscal year were 4 7-10 per cent., against 5¾ for the preceding year.

POND DRAGGED IN VAIN FOR WOMAN'S BODY

LAWRENCE, Oct. 6.—The police search for the body of Mrs. Rebecca Blaisdell, who was drowned last week in Welch's Pond at Methuen under mysterious circumstances continued today. Grappling irons failed to locate the body in the pond and dynamite eventually is to be used in the case of bringing it to the surface.

Mary E. Sullivan of Lowell, the girl's foster mother, came here today to see the police. She does not believe the girl committed suicide.

Frank C. Hoffman, who was with the girl when she was drowned, is helping the police search. His story is that after a quarrel, Mrs. Schmidt jumped overboard, fought off his efforts at rescue, and sank to her death.

Liquor Men Deny Revenue Offences

Charles Spiegel & Co. and A. Blum, Jr.'s Sons, New York corporations dealing in liquors, were arraigned in the Federal District Court today on an indictment charging violation of internal revenue acts. Both defendants entered pleadings practically admitting the allegations, but the counsels entered pleas of purported ignorance and pleaded there was cheapness of grades.

TREMONT STREET WINTER STREET TEMPLE PLACE

"ONE OF THE MERCHANDISE MARVELS OF THE WORLD"

IT LOOKS LIKE A GREAT WEEK

—It seems as though everybody came yesterday, with THRIFT AS THE INCENTIVE. Totals of our past sales have reached figures unequalled by any store of the same size in the world—yet sales up to the time this advertisement went to press enable us to say, "A NEW RECORD HAS BEEN ACHIEVED." The sale that tens of thousands in Boston and New England have long awaited, brings prices that you may rest assured will not be equalled, with the possible exception of our famous April Thoroughfare Sale.

—WE DID NOT PREPARE THIS SALE IN A DAY OR A WEEK. Months of arduous effort have been spent in searching the markets of the world to procure merchandise worthy of this sale—in quality and price. It is the merchandise itself that makes this one of the world's greatest sales.

—Spurred by its success, THE IMITATORS have come from far and wide, with hastily trumped-up "bargains"—yet Monday's phenomenal business shows that most people want "dependable merchandise" rather than so-called "bargains." Such ephemeral efforts die out as quickly as they are born. On the other hand this establishment has made preparations of immense calibre for a solid WEEK OF SALES. The controlling motive has been to secure STANDARD QUALITIES AT MUCH LESS THAN REGULAR PRICES.

—IT WILL BE A WEEK OF POSITIVELY UNPARALLELED VALUE-GIVING in every part of this great establishment. We advertise comparatively few of the items, but this sale includes every nook and corner of our store—

At a meeting of the directors of the Mystic Valley League last night it was decided to open the season a week later than scheduled, and a new team will be represented, and each team will play [illegible] games.

The first week of the championship tandem series in the Boston Bowling League has come and gone, and the Arlington team is the only one to finish with a clean slate. The Hurley team is second, with one defeat to its credit. The two teams are tied for the lead in the percentage column.

The summary for the Pittsfield League opens the season with Wednesday night's schedule: Pittsfield vs. Adams, Lenox vs. Dalton, Great Barrington vs. Stockbridge, Williamstown vs. Milton and the Berkshires vs. [illegible].

The Arlington and Hurley teams, both of which have come down to the Boston League, will make their first appearance in the Boston alleys this week. Arlington opens tonight at Murray A. Irwin's and Hurley will make its first appearance Wednesday night at Rowe's Wharf.

Crimson Asks More Practice in Open

The Harvard Crimson, while editorially defending the policy of secret practice, advocates more open work on the interests of the undergraduates. The Crimson is modest in its wants, however, and seeks to influence Coach Haughton to throw the gates open only on the Fridays before the Michigan and Princeton games as well as during the last practice in Cambridge before the Yale game.

Army-Navy Game On Again; Off Again

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The Army and Navy football game seems to be off again after it was "definitely settled" that the game would be played in Philadelphia on November 18. Secretary of War Garrison has received a telegram from West Point, which stated that the Army would not agree to any three-year agreement and that it would have to be for ten years. Otherwise the Army will refuse to become a party to it.

GREENFIELD, Oct. 6.—Francis Quimet, national amateur golf champion, took part in an exhibition foursome at the Greenfield Country Club. He played the eighteen holes in 77. Quimet, with Charles F. Lapp Is Star Behind the Bat for Athletics

Veteran Has Played in Three World Series

Mack's Rugged Catcher Has Yet to Make an Error in a Title Game.

Of the three catchers who will work behind the bat for Connie Mack in the coming World's Series Jack Lapp gets into the spotlight the least. One hears a lot about old Ira Thomas and young Wallie Schang, and the fans are usually so busy in singing their praises that they are inclined to overlook the third member of the staff.

It is true that Lapp is not as experienced as the veteran Thomas or as brilliant as the more youthful Schang, still he is an invaluable member of the present world's champions, and the fact that he does not edge into the limelight as frequently as some of his teammates is not because he is less deserving. Lapp is one of the type of players whose work is, as a rule, so steady and smooth that it fails to attract much attention.

When Lapp broke into the big league as a member of the Athletics he was not hailed as a wonder. He did he prove to be a sensation afterward. He made good, of course, as he has done ever since, and his work was beyond criticism, as it is today, but his debut was minus the grand burrah that attended the advent of Wallie Schang last season.

JOINED ATHLETICS IN 1909.

Jack got his early training on the sand lots in the vicinity of his home at Frazer, Pa., where he was born thirty years ago. He was given his first opportunity to shine as a professional in 1907, when he was signed by the Berwyn club in the Maine League. He did not remain with that team long, however, being made a better offer by the Hazleton club of the old Atlantic League, and soon gained a reputation of being the best backstop in the league.

The Atlantic League at that time was staggering along under a heavy financial burden. The pay envelopes were not as fat or as regular as the players wanted them to be, and when the Syracuse club made Lapp an offer he quit his old team without the formality of saying good-bye.

That move got him into a peck of trouble. He was suspended for jumping his contract, but the matter was straightened out to the satisfaction of everybody. Lapp was reinstated in the Fall of 1908, and shortly after was signed by Connie Mack. He reported to the Athletics the following spring.

Connie Mack looked him over and decided he would be benefited by a little experience with a High-class minor league organization and shipped him to Newark. Jack played with the Indians until midseason, and was recalled by Mack, finishing out the year with the Mackmen.

HIT WELL THE FIRST YEAR.

He had an unusually good season at bat, and his first appearance in the American League credited him with a batting average of .316 for twenty-one games. This is a little above his speed as a batsman, however, for Lapp does not mingle with the select circle of .300 swatemiths as a rule. He has had one other highly successful season with the stick since then.

In 1911 Lapp boasted of a batting percentage of .252 and led all the catchers in the league with the stick. This season threatens to be his worst so far as stick work is concerned, his present speed being about .214, but Jack has shown no signs of going back in other respects. He is one of the best foul-fly catchers in the league and also shines in cutting down the men on bases.

Lapp has taken part in three world's series. He worked behind the bat in two games in 1911 against the Giants, who were considered the best base runners in the majors at the time. Lapp had no trouble in holding them in check, and distinguished himself in those games by his throwing to the bases.

In the series of 1910 and 1913 Lapp worked only one game each, but came out with a perfect fielding average, as he did also in the series of 1911.

Dillon Gives Flynn 10-Round Lesson in Art of Boxing

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 5.—Jack Dillon, Hoosier middleweight, of Indianapolis, won a clean-cut decision over Jim Flynn, the Pueblo heavyweight, in a fast ten-round bout here.

The awarding of the decision was a mere formality. Dillon beating Flynn in every round except the first, which was even.

There were no knockdowns, but many times Flynn's knees sagged because of the terrific punishing he took, and when the bell did not save him he saved himself by clinching and holding on to his light opponent.

Flynn's tactics were hissed. He left the ring bodily marked up, while Dillon showed no signs of the battling.

Three More School Hockey Teams for Places in League

Newton High, Cambridge High and Latin and Medford High have applied for admission to the Interscholastic Hockey League and from the present outlook a seven-team league instead of a four-club series will be running next Winter.

It is possible that the schools in question will not be willing to be ruled by all the terms of the constitution and in this case a withdrawal will be necessary.

Newton High and Cambridge High and Latin are now in the Triangular League with Brookline High, and it is likely that this league will be abandoned in favor of the Interscholastic.

Nickalls Will Not Change Yale Rowing

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5.—Ninety-four candidates for the university boats and seventy-four for the freshmen attended an enthusiastic meeting, at which Yale rowing plans for the year were considered. The squad is the largest in years. Coach Guy Nichalls, the English oarsman, was given a rousing reception. It was his first big meeting with the oarsmen since the victory over Harvard last June. It was announced that there would be no change in the coaching policy the coming season.

Holiday Checker Tourney.

The New England Checker Association will make a departure from former years in having a Fall opening tournament to be held at the Revere House next Monday, Columbus Day. Hitherto the association's only large gathering of checker players has been upon Washington's Birthday when the Boston team has annually met an All-New England combination. Roscoe Pinkfest, secretary of the association, is now engaged in making arrangements.

100 Extra Tickets for Royal Rooters

Through the kindness of ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, who interceded with President Gaffney and Secretary Nickerson of the Boston National League club, the "Royal Rooters" have been extended 100 extra tickets, making 300 in all. A few more tickets are left and will be given to the first applicants.

The party will leave Boston Thursday at 3:40 p. m., under the personal direction of John Keenan, John Killeen and Charles Lavin. It will reach New York at midnight and put up there, going to Philadelphia at 7 o'clock Friday morning. In Philadelphia the rooters will make their headquarters at the Continental Hotel. They will be accompanied by the Ninth Regiment band.

Welsh Agrees to Bout with White

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion, has agreed to box Charley White of this city before the club offering the largest purse. The battle is to take place not later than Thanksgiving Day.

New Elective Plan.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 6.—The Dartmouth non-athletic council, consisting of Prof. Gordon F. Hull, head of the physics department; Prof. Eugene Clark of the German department; C. A. Phillips of the economics department and two undergraduates, has proposed to the sophomore class a new system for electing non-athletic managers.

Appollonio to Lead Thayer Club Crew

Kenneth Appollonio, '13, of Milton has been appointed captain of the Thayer Club crew at Harvard. Everett R. Wilkinson, '13, will lead the Eliot Club crew. Both boats are located at the Weld Club and will be coached by Ed J. Brown, the well-known rowing coach and Harvard graduate.

Two New York Bouts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Jimmy Pasane and Bushey Graham fought ten fast rounds to a draw at the Olympic A. C. Young Sharkey and Johnny Daly also fought a draw in the semi-final of ten rounds.

"Poisons generated in the intestines and absorbed into the blood are the chief causes of a majority of the ills which afflict humanity," says Professor Elie Metchnikoff, F. M. M.S., Sub-Director Pasteur Institute, Paris, winner of the Nobel Prize, 1908, for his paper on Prolongation of Life.

A frequent, periodical flushing of the system by means of a physic is necessary to remove all poisonous accumulations, even though the bowels be regular.

PLUTO Water, by its prompt, non-irritating action, carries away waste products from the intestines and prevents their absorption into the blood.

Its wide use, in hospitals and by the medical profession generally, is evidence of its superiority.

ATLAS A. A. PROGRAM.

Colin Bell vs. Sam Langford, twelve rounds.

Walter Butler vs. Charley Byers, eight rounds.

Mark Spencer vs. "Young" Kansas, six rounds.

Johnny Noonan vs. Leo Dundee, six rounds.

By JACK CONWAY.

A SLASHING heavyweight battle is expected when Sam Langford, the famous ebony hued gladiator, and Colin Bell, the honorable heavyweight champion of Australia, clash in a twelve-round tussle at the Atlas A. A. tonight. The "Tar Baby" naturally rules a favorite in the betting, as he is seldom among the "also rans," but there are a number of the young men who enjoy playing a flyer on a little game of ballcuffs who are grabbing the short ends. Many wagers have also been made that the whirl will go the limit.

Bell and George M. Lawrence, his manager, are both certain that Langford is due to receive a setback. Samuel, however, is not worrying a great deal over this evening's engagement, and apparently enjoyed his meals today as well as he usually does.

Bell is one of the fastest big men in the ring today. He moves around the canvas with the speed of a middleweight, and is sure to land slinging punches from almost any angle. He also knows Langford's style of fighting, having held Sam to a fifteen-round draw in Australia eighteen months ago.

The heavyweight from the land of the Southern Cross is a giant in size, being 5 feet 11 inches tall, while he scales 195 pounds. He will have height and reach on Langford, but the latter will outweigh him by few pounds.

TAKING a line from Langford's contest with Joe Jeanette in New York last Thursday, George Lawrence, manager of Bell, who saw the bout, rests himself on receipts. He is certain that the Australian champion will defeat Langford. He said today:

"The New York contest was a very warm affair, and both the men never wasted a moment. But in other words, the result of the handiwork of each clearly showing at the end. Even what I saw of the bout, and what I know of Bell, I feel sure that Bell will exhibit his true form before this country by reason of the showing that he will make on his debut and against the great Langford.

"That contest will put us nearer to a match with Jeanette, with whom I know will only consent to fight Bell when public sentiment demands it. The public should know that the Australian champion is in fine condition, for he has had a long course of preparation before he left New York and has adhered to strict training since he got to Boston.

"It has cost me many thousands of dollars to bring Bell from Australia, and I know that I will be well repaid by the result of his contest with Langford. Figuring it all out, I cannot see where Langford has anything on Bell beyond a few years more experience, and my man has seven years the better of the Boston man and is a better all-around athlete, and I insist that the sporting men here never saw a more courageous fighter than Bell. He is as hard a hitter as the much lauded 'Gunboat' Smith. After tonight's bout there will be no excuse of Langford and 'Gunboat' Smith being a big attraction."

AS evidence of the herculean powers of Bell, and the remarkable durability of the heavyweight champion's work with native bears or bullocks, who were to be killed for food, in that country they have not the advantages of modern preparation, such as are used in our American stock yards, so they merely big, powerful giants to grapple these bears in the ring of live beef, and hold them, while a professional butcher slaughters them.

There have been days when Bell's fight fighting expanded covered the handling of crushed bullocks, and ropes or contrivances were employed to do the work. Bell simply grappled the steers, dexterously threw them, and when they were thrown to the ground in a certain and safe position, the official slaughterer got in his work while the ferocious beast fought desperately.

It was this somewhat Samsonian work which developed the tremendous powers that the Australian champion possesses and Bell declares that the work which he followed during some of his days at home was the most fitting training that could be indulged in by wrestlers, and that when a professional fighter could get through such experience, and afterwards develop as a boxer of any quality, it seems plausible that it might furnish the right material for a world's champion.

Smoking Out the Braves

By A. H. Mitchell.

Proverbs up to Date.

A ruling against police power now, but it was something of the country.

In the yards of stuff printed these days about the Braves, you don't hear much about Fred Mitchell. Yet Fred Mitchell is a big cog in the Stallings wheel.

"If anything should happen to Fred Mitchell I would lose my right arm. Mitch is my right arm. This is the way the big chief himself puts it.

About all the "fans" see of Mitch is during the infield practice, when he bats to the fielders, and then when the game starts and the Braves take their trips at bat, the "fans" see Mitch leave the dugout and walk at a slow and lumbering gait to the third-base coaching box. When the inning ends, Mitch walks back to the dugout, and nothing more is seen of him until the Braves go to bat again.

Pretty Soft for Mitch, You Will Remark.

If, perchance, the Braves are blanked, you see no signs of disappointment on Mitch's face; if, perchance, the Braves score half a dozen runs, no sign of elation can be detected on his countenance. In short, Mitch lacks gesticulations and plods his weary way from the dugout to the coaching box and from the coaching box to the dugout without allowing anything to break in on the even tenor of his ways.

Pretty soft for Mitch, you will say.

Well, it is pretty soft. But Mitch's connection with the Braves covers considerably more ground and is expressed in the distance from the dugout to the coaching box.

Mitch Is the Right Arm of Manager Stallings.

Mitch is the right arm of Stallings. It is he that puts the pitchers in condition. If it were not for Mitch the "big three"—Tyler, James and Rudolph—would not have been nearly so effective as they are. It was Mitch who took them in hand and taught them things.

Mitch was a helper for his father when the "old man" raced a string of horses years ago. Mitch liked baseball better than he did the horses, but on the race track he learned many a trick and he grew while following the nags. Mitch is a wise owl now. Under his quiet exterior his brains are working all the time, and many a signal he cops from the coaching box. He gets the "inside stuff" on other fellows and telegraphs it to Stallings on the bench.

Used to Pitch for the Harvard Candidates.

Mitch earned his first baseball money in a semi-professional way, and he added to his meagre batting roll by pitching to the Harvard baseball candidates out on Holmes Field (you see Mitch is no Spring chicken, for they haven't played ball on Holmes Field for many a year).

In the course of time Mitch got a job with Jimmy Collins' old team as a pitcher. He stayed with Collins until Connie Mack yelled for help. Connie was shy of twirlers, so Jimmy let him go to Philadelphia. Connie kept him until he thought he was all in, and then let him go. But Mitch wasn't all in by any means. He went to the International League (then the Eastern League), and stayed awhile, then joined the New York Highlanders. Then he went back to the Internationals again.

One day he said to Joe Kelley, the Toronto manager: "I'm going to be a catcher."

Joe Kelley said: "You're crazy." Mitch said: "Maybe so, but I'm going to be a catcher, just the same."

Mitch Stops Pitching and Becomes a Backstop.

And he did. He dropped the curves and fast ball and slow teaser, and, donning mask, mitt and chest-protector, he went behind the bat and he never pitched another game.

When Stallings became manager of the Braves he brought Mitch to Boston with him. Everybody said: "What does Stallings want of Mitchell, he's all in as a pitcher and he can't catch any more."

But Mitch can catch a good game of ball right now, if anybody should ask you. He is more valuable to Stallings, however, in other ways.

Mitch is a rolling stone, and there isn't any more on him, either. He owns a prosperous farm in Hudson, one of the sights of a crisp Winter morning is to see Mitch driving a load of apples to market. He doesn't have to do it. He does it for fun.

HARVARD TRIES NEW PLAYS TO DEFEAT W. & J.

By TED PARKE.

The Earl of Chesterfield once said, "Dispatch is the soul of business," and apparently with this thought in his mind and naturally noting well his origin, Head Coach Haughton has already started his young charges in their drilling for the Washington and Jefferson and Tufts games which are certain to prove to be a couple of the hardest early season games the Crimson warriors ever tackled.

A hard workout for the varsity against the second eleven was the plan for the candidates in the Stadium today, the second team using plays which have been whisked together by the able scouts who had a thousand eyes at the Washington and Jefferson game last Saturday.

DANGEROUS PLAYS EXPLAINED.

But of greater primary importance in the minds of the coaches than the scrimmage is the blackboard talk, which each day now is assuming more terrifying proportions and about noontime each day looms like an ogre over the football practice horizon.

The more important and what seemed to be the more dangerous of the plays which the Pennsylvania college is using this year were all gone over thoroughly, both backward and forward. Forward in the sense that the attack of the team which will play the role of Invaders Saturday, was outlined clearly, and backward by diagramming the defence which the Crimson eleven should use as a prescription for dashing the new plays.

Each and every man was shown just what he should do in every emergency. The only contingency not being touched upon being a double back flip over the Harvard line by a Washington and Jefferson halfback. This latter is deemed a remote possibility at the most.

COWEN MAY BE IN GAME.

After the brains of the Crimson squad had absorbed the diagrams on the blackboard they, together with the necessary bodies of the players, were removed to the field and given some actual demonstrations of the plays.

Another feature of the week's hard work will be special defensive instruction and some bolstering up of the line, which did not function badly.

In all likelihood Cowen, the big guard left over from last season, will be available for play by Saturday of this week and he is going to appear before the powers that be shortly and take his "orals."

BRAVES WIND UP SEASON TODAY WITH DODGERS

By NICK FLATLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Two games today with the Dodgers, and the Braves are off tonight for Philadelphia and the battle of the century with their rival champions.

No team ever went into a big series feeling more confident of the ultimate result than do the "Stallings" Senations.

A new set of signals was used yesterday, as Stallings is not taking any chances on what the Athletic scouts might have learned of his system while watching the Braves play recently.

Stallings was the height of confidence today—confident not that he would go over and wipe up the field with the Athletics, but confident that the Braves were in the best possible shape for the big series.

He has worked out all his subs as well as the regulars and while he does not say so, it is apparent that he puts a whole lot of faith in the superiority of his second string men over the Mack seconds.

Every man on the team, said the manager this morning, is ready for the series, and every man will play the best ball that's in him. I think we have shown our fighting power often enough to make it certain that we will not go down without a good fight.

The pitchers have all worked better even than I had hoped here in New York and Brooklyn. The Braves are ready for the battle of their lives.

CATHER SHOWS UP WELL.

The way the right-hand hitters of the outfield squirrel have been performing has made the entire camp very joyful. The Braves have more respect for Plank than for any of the other Athletic twirlers-and consequently the round manner in which the Brooklyn scampwags were assaulted yesterday made everybody happy.

Cather, who will replace Connolly, will not prove any weak spot, for he keeps on the way he has been going for the last two weeks. Over in New York he hammered out two circus doubles the first three times he came to bat, and yesterday poled out five sharp clean hits in his appearance in the two games.

Cather cut in with two homers and two singles, one of his circuit drives coming with the bases full, while the Braves were batting so that they still were the most dangerous hitting team in the league.

Mann, likewise, was not a bit behind the others, connecting for a long double and a single and contributing a homer and a double in the morning game.

TEAM PLAY NEAR PERFECT.

So far as scoring runs goes, the Braves now for a month have been playing a game on the old basis more than any team in either league, not excepting the Athletics. A glance at the batting order today will show that Manager Stallings has not let the "inside baseball" idea get the best of him.

While not boasting many high average hitters, the team has the finest little assortment of baserunners in the well-known business, and here again the Macks need not be excepted.

Team play has been the morning-night and now every one of Stallings on the bench and of Evers in the field. The combination of what the miracle man gathered in during his long years as manager with what Evers picked up as a member of the famous Cub machine has been the making of the Braves.

It has brought as fine an all-round ball team as has been seen in the National League since the days of Anson, and it will make even the wonderful Mack outfit go the limit, unless all signs fail.

The Braves had one of the longest meetings of the season last night, being closeted in Manager Stallings' room for a couple of hours while Manager Stallings told all that he knew of the Athletic style of play.

Stallings has a number of clever baseball players, unbeknomed himself very freely, as also did Pat Moran of the Phillies, who has been cast in the role of adviser. If the Braves are beaten it will not be because of any lack of knowledge of Athletic.

In today's two games with Brooklyn, the last battles of the season of 1914, all the star pitchers of the champions are going to get brief tryouts, but for more than one inning or two each. Tyler will probably start the first game and James the second, while Rudolph will work in after one of the others.

Stallings, however, that the three stars will do their stuff in the opener, when the regular lineup will be on the field, and then have the second and last game of the season unique in baseball history to the mercies of Paul Strand and Spitball George Davis.

'Matty' Tells Braves How to Win Pennant

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Watch Collins and you'll beat the Athletics, is Christy Mathewson's advice to the Braves. He's the one dangerous man on the team and he can hit anything. Good pitchers can keep them away from him, and that's the one way and the only way to go about it. Baker likes a high ball, but a fast low one will get him.

Good pitching will win for the Braves, and you sure have the good pitching to offer.

I believe you are going to win. The Athletics are a whole lot more afraid of you than you are of them. For the first time in four years they are going into a World's Series worried.

No team that has gone along like the Braves can be taken easy, and the Athletics know it.

You fellows have the edge, and if you play to game back of your really great pitchers, you'll bring the championship back to the National League.

A HAPPY BALD HEADED MAN

Well-Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has New Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and, ready wit, surprised his friends by appearing with a new growth of hair. Many of his old friends did not know him and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the remarkable growth of my hair to the use of the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can make at home: To a half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair but removes dandruff, and by its tonic effect prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home."

SENATORS MEET RED SOX TODAY IN 2ND BATTLE

The Red Sox and Senators line up in the second game of their series at Fenway Park this afternoon and the Carrigan crew are out to get back at Griffith's men for the 9 to 5 lacing they handed out in the opening battle.

Griffith, who is after all the games he can secure against the series with Walter Johnson in the box and while the "Big Swede" was hit hard the runs were few and far between.

"Tris" Speaker was the big wallooper of the day, connecting with a double and two singles, while Jansyn and Gardner secured two blows apiece.

Pitted against the big Senator was Ray Collins. It was his first appearance on the mound since his wonderful feat of winning a double-header several weeks ago.

The big Vermont southpaw was pummelled for seven hits in as many innings, after which Vean Gregg did service on the hillock.

He, too, was touched up freely and the hits, wrapped around three passes and error, helped the Senators swell their total.

GREAT RUSH FOR RESERVED SEATS FOR THE GAMES AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The rush for World's Series tickets is on and today, in spite of the fact that the pasteboards do not go on sale until tomorrow, extra policemen have been called to keep the fans in line and keep the street in front of the ticket offices where the tickets will be sold open to traffic.

Never before in the history of pennant contests in this city has there been such a mad rush at such an early date. A long line of prospective purchasers has been waiting for at least twelve hours, camping on boxes, stools and even soft cushions, sleeping and eating on the sidewalk in order to hold their prized places.

One enterprising youth has cropped on a soap box at the head of the line since early yesterday morning. He is Joseph Fiorito, of Camden, N. J., and says he has his brother, by taking turns in holding the coveted place, twenty-four seats which he disposed of.

They are for his father, who, he said, had not missed a championship series for many years.

Several of the men and boys in line did not hesitate to say that they would dispose of their places if they received a fair offer.

According to reports here, Chief Bender, who has started the last two World's Series for Mack, will get the first assignment, while Eddie Plank gets the second assignment, whether Bender wins or loses, and Shawkey or Bressler for the third game.

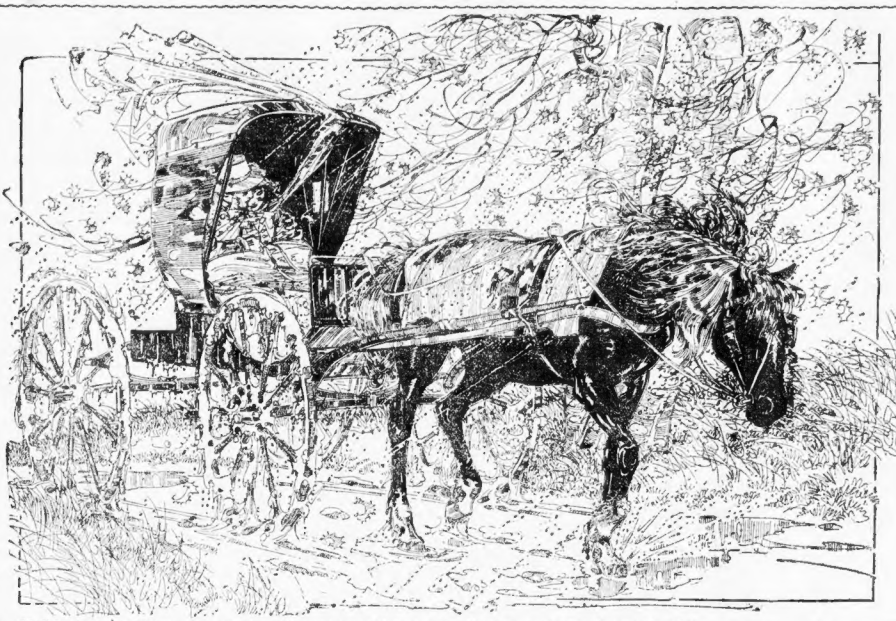
A Joy Ride

(LOVE NEEDS NO FLOWERS AND MOONLIGHT)

By NELL BRINKLEY

(Copyright, 1913, by International News Service)



A GRAY boy-faced man I know, who is deeply in love with his wife, looked into the fire, flashed a teasing glance at her pretty pinky face, with its halo of mut-brown hair and heaven-blue eyes like dew-filled hare-bells, who sat beside him in a deep couch, and then drew his story out of the fire-heart of the flame on the hearth. The mountain mists circled outside like the head-veils of dreary fairies, and his story was told to the luxurious crackling of the fire-spirit in the chimney and the wind-spirit outside that cried.

"I proposed to my wife in a swaying, old-fashioned top-buggy in a flooding, driving rain on the prairies of Kansas! It was a day that banshees wail for Irishmen who have not been good. I was visiting on the ranch where she was staying, with all these beauties, that still you see about her to trap a chap's heart. And the rain rained out of heaven for days.

"And I was in love—even worse than I am now! And the rain wouldn't stop. So I dreadfully drove out in the gray waste in an old buggy—the rain curtains up, the water beating dreadfully on the sides of it, the mud (do you know Kansas mud in spots on that sea of prairie that can stretch in the sun like a tender green ocean—DO YOU KNOW KANSAS MUD?), the mud plopping dreadfully at every circle of the wheels, the gentle, old, fat, blind horse ambling dreamily along, mist everywhere, dreary trees, dreary distances, with the blotting, whipping rain, and inside we two, I with the girl I loved, pretty and mad because the rain was in her face! And I put my arm around her and proposed—just after she had said, 'ANYbody who'd take anybody else out driving a day like'—

"And she took me. And from then on it was a joy-ride. It shows how much she loved me, to say 'yes in a setting like that!"

And his pretty wife closed her fingers over his bigger, browner hand and counter-thrust, "I only said yes because I was afraid I would be set out to walk if I didn't!"

"Just the same," mused the man, "it proves that Love doesn't depend on stage scenery and flowers, Summer moons and sunshine, and color and laughter. A JOY-RIDE is made of the stuff in your heart! Rain-drowned wastes, dreary, beating rain, thudding mud, a splattered old buggy with a wry top, and a fat, blind horse, and a mad girl will do Love just as well!"—NELL BRINKLEY.

CHAPTER XIV.

Tea on the Veranda Again

IT was more irritating than ever for Mrs. Galland to keep pace with her daughter's inconsistencies. Here was Marta saying coolly:

"Unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's! We have our property, our home to protect. Perhaps the Grays have come to stay for good, as grandmamma is our only weapon. We cannot fight a whole army single-handed."

"You have found that out, Marta?" said Mrs. Galland.

"We have four rooms in the baron's tower and a kitchen stove," Marta proceeded. "With Minna we can make ourselves very comfortable and leave the house to the staff."

"The Gallands in their gardener's quarters! The staff of the Grays in ours! Your father will turn in his grave!" Mrs. Galland exclaimed.

"But, mother, it is not quite agreeable to think of three women living in the same house with a score of strange men!" Marta persisted.

"I had not thought of that, Marta. Of course, it would be abominable!" agreed Mrs. Galland, promptly capitulating where a point of propriety was involved.

When Marta informed the officer—the same one who had rung the door-bell on his second visit—of the family's decision he appeared shocked at the idea of eviction that was implied. But, secretly pleased at the turn of events, he hastened to apologize for war's brutal necessities, and Marta's complaisance led him to consider himself something of a diplomatist. Yes, more than ever he was convinced of the wisdom of an invader ringing doorbells.

Meanwhile the service-corps men had continued their work until now there was no vestige of war in the grounds that labor could obliterate; and rooms had come to repair the walls of the house itself and plasterers to renew the broken ceilings.

MARTA WONDERS

All this Marta regarded in a kind of charmed wonder that an invader could be so considerate. Her manner with the officers in charge of preparations had the simplicity and ease which a woman of twenty-seven, who is not old-maidish because she is not afraid of a single future, may employ as a serene hostess. She frequently asked if there were good news.

"Yes," was the uniform reply. An unexpected setback here or resistance there, but progress nevertheless. But she learned, too, that the first two days' fighting along the frontier had cost the Grays fifty thousand casualties.

"In order to make an omelet you must break eggs!" she remarked.

"Spoken like a true soldier—like a member of the staff!" was the reply.

In her constraint and detachment they realized her conscious appreciation of the fact that in earlier times her people had been for the Browns; but in her flashes of interest in the progress of the war, flashes from a woman's unmilitary mind, they judged that her heart was with the Grays. And why not? Was it not natural that a woman with more than her share of intellectual perception should be on the right side? From her associations it was not to be expected that she would make an outright declaration of apostasy. This would destroy the value and the attractiveness of her conversion. Reverence for the past, for a father who had fought for the Browns, against her own convictions, made her attitude appear singularly and delicately correct.

The war was a week old—a week which had developed other tangents and traps than Le Tir—on the morning that the first installment of junior officers came to occupy the tables and desks. Where the family portraits had hung in the dining-room were now big maps dotted with brown and gray flags. Portable field cabinets with sectional maps on a large scale were arranged around the walls of the drawing-room. To what had been the lounging-room of the old days of Galland prosperity, the refrain of half a dozen telegraph instruments made medley with the clicking of typewriters. Cooks and helpers were busy in the kitchen; for the staff were to live like gentlemen; they were to have their morning baths, their comfortable beds, and regular meals. No twinge of indigestion or of rheumatism from exposure was to interfere with the working of their precious intellectual processes. No detail of assistance would be lacking to save any bureaucratic head time and labor. The bedrooms were apportioned according to rank—that of the master awaited the master; the best servants' bedroom awaited Francois, his valet.

HAD HAWK EYES

When Bouchard, the chief of Intelligence, who fought the battle of wits and spies against Lanstron, came, two hours before Westerling was due, the last of the staff except Westerling and his personal aide had arrived. Bouchard, with his iron-gray hair, bushy eyebrows, strong, aquiline nose and hawk-like eyes, his mouth hidden by a bristly mustache, was lean and saturnine, and he was loyal. No jealous thought entered his mind at having to serve a man younger than himself. He did not carry a personality; he served a chief of staff and a profession. The score of words which second him as he looked over the arrangements were all of directing criticism and hitting off sharply, as if he regretted that he had to waste breath in communicating even a fragment of wisdom.

"I tell nothing, but you tell me everything!" said Bouchard's hawk eyes. He was old-fashioned; he looked his part, which was one of the many points of difference between him and Lanstron as a chief of intelligence.

It lacked one minute to four when Hedreth Westerling, chief of staff in name as well as power now, alighted from his motor automobile that turned in at the Galland drive. His excellency had not occupied his new headquarters as soon as he expected, but this could have no influence on the fact that he had lost 50,000 men on the first two days and 200,000 since the war had begun, should he allow this to disturb his well-being of body or mind? His well-being of body and mind meant the ultimate saving of lives.

Confidence was reflected in Westerling's bearing and in his smile of command as he passed through the staff rooms. Turcsa and Bouchard in his train, with tacit approval of the arrangements. Finally, Turcsa, now chief of staff, and the other chiefs awaited his pleasure in the library, which was to be his sanctum. On the massive seventeenth-century desk lay a number of reports and suggestions. Westerling ran through them with accustomed swiftness of sifting and then turned to his personal aide.

"Tell Francois that I will have tea on the veranda."

TEA ON THE VERANDA

From the fact that he took with him the papers that he had laid aside, subordinate generals, with the gift of unspoken directions while his a part of their profession, understood that he meant to go over the subjects requiring special attention while he had tea.

"Everything is going well—well!" he added.

"Well!" ran the unspoken communication of confidence through the staff. So well that His Excellency was calmly taking tea on the veranda! For the indefatigable Turcsa the detail; for Westerling the front of Jove.

He had told Marta only two weeks ago that he should see her again if war came; and war had come. With the inviting prospect of a few holiday moments in which to continue the interview that had been abruptly concluded in a hotel reception room, he started down the terrace steps. Their glances met where the second terrace path ended at the second terrace flight; hers shot with a beam of restrained and questioning good humor that spoke at least a truce to the invader.

"You called sooner than I expected," she said in a note of equivocal pleasantry.

"Oh I," he rejoined with a shade of triumph, the politest of triumph. He was a step above her, her head on a level with the pocket of his blouse. His square shoulders, commanding height and military exactness were thus emphasized, as was her own feminine slightness.

"I want to thank you," she said. "As becomes a soldier, your forethought was expressed in action. It was the promptness of the men you sent to look after the gardens which saved the uprooted plants before they were past recovery."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Up-to-Date Jokes

Proudly he walked up to his betrothed and drew from his pocket a small morocco case. Opening it, he took out a ring—a single diamond—and placed it on her tapering finger.

"It's a very small diamond!" she said, and paused. Then, "And not very brilliant, either."

"Ah, sweetheart, but love is blind."

Raising her limpid eyes to his, she said:

"Yes, dear, but not stone blind!"

The head of a certain well-known family was recently approached by his son, just nearing his majority.

"Father," said he, "I want to have a talk with you concerning my future. I have decided to become an artist. Have you any objections?"

The old man scratched his head reflectively and replied:

"Well, no, my son—provided, of course, you don't draw on me."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEING FAIR TO A GIRL

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have known a young lady for two years. During that time we have become great friends. She is very popular, but this Summer she has refused all invitations from other young men. Naturally, I confined my attentions to her. I do not want to marry for four years. In fact, I am not sure whether she is the only one for me. I want to treat her honorably and do the right thing by her. Along what lines should we continue our friendship? We are both twenty-one.

W. L. B.

STATE your case clearly to the girl who cares for you. It is much better to be honest with her and inflict a quick, sharp wound than to permit her to go on from year to year giving you her love and attention and then at last wake up to the hopelessness of her position.

The only honorable thing to do is to tell her exactly how you feel.

DO NOT ACCEPT.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of eighteen and am employed as a private stenographer by a downtown broker. My employer has asked me several times to take lunch with him, but I have always refused on the basis that I don't think it proper that I should dine with a gentleman over three times my age, who is married and has three children.

Will you please let me know if I am doing the right thing by not consenting to his requests?

E. H. F.

IT would be very wrong of you to accept the invitations of your employer, who is a married man. No good can ever come of such a friendship. It would be likely to cause the wife and children suffering, and your own reputation if not your happiness. Make your refusal firm but pleasant.

TALK IT OVER WITH HER

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Have been keeping company with a young lady for the last six months and really thought I loved her, and now, as I am to be engaged to her, feel at times as though I don't care for her at all. I have encouraged her for all that length of time and really am undecided what to do. I hate to give her up, and still am unhappy with her. Do you think that the feeling will wear off in time?

HEARTBROKEN.

PERHAPS your uncertain feelings are due merely to the thought of "losing your freedom" and entering upon a new relationship. But you would be wise to talk the matter over with the girl for whom you have such uncertain affection. Better grieve her a little now than marry her and come to be a cold, unloving husband.

HE IS PROBABLY SELFISH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-one years of age, and have known a young man five years my senior, for the past four years. He never takes me to any places of amusement, but whenever he meets me on the street he takes me home. My sister laughs at me because he doesn't take me out. Don you think I should allow him to take me home if he doesn't take me out? I love him very much.

EVELYN R.

IN these days of moving pictures and inexpensive means of amusement, there is no reason why the man for whom you care should not show you some slight attention.

He is probably selfish and prefers to spend his money on his own enjoyments, and to escort you home as an inexpensive means of showing his interest.

Household Suggestions

If you boil hooks and eyes in strong soda water before sewing them on garments it will prevent their iron-moulding in the wash.

To remove the smell of fish or cabbage from a saucepan, burn a piece of brown paper on the fire and turn the saucepan down over the burning paper. This will remove all odor, whatever it is, in a few seconds.

To make linen easier to write on when marking it, dip the piece to be marked in cold starch, and the pen will write without scratching.

Dissolve a lump of soda in a little hot water and add it to the blue water. This prevents the blue from settling in the clothes, and makes them beautifully white.

Every woman who cuts out from a paper pattern knows of the bother in pinning it flat to the cloth. Take a hot iron and smooth the tissue paper pattern over the cloth, and it will remain flat without pins.

When boiling fowls or fish, add to the water in which they are boiled the juice of half a lemon. This will make them beautifully white.

A SCIENTIFIC WAY TO REMOVE UNSIGHTLY HAIR

Apply a few drops of El Rado, the liquid hair remover, on the growth; after washing off with a little cold water not a trace of it will remain. The ingredients in El Rado are used by many physicians for exactly the same purpose, which proves conclusively how perfectly harmless it is.

This wonderful preparation is the result of a long series of scientific experiments, and is proving a veritable godsend to women of refinement with hair growths on lip, chin, cheek, neck or arms. Use a simple application of El Rado to saturate the hair, it is hurriedly dissolved and in a few moments is gone, leaving the skin smooth, clean and velvety. To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A Physician's Advice

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid-fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They just absorb enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "extra three" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful flesh-building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless yet wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

OPERA SEASON AT THE BOSTON THEATRE OPENS

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

The golden days of grand opera at the Boston Theatre would seem to have returned, for it was a full house last night at the opening of the season given by W. H. Lasky is to be the regular thing.

The theatre was stormed, and scores were turned away. Every available post was occupied and the enthusiasm reminded one most vividly of months ago, when the Castles made their debut in the performance.

And there were society gods just right, that was the first night the Boston Theatre was filled to the last row with a throng that was a delight of music lovers, and as the night was hot many of them took their seats in the gallery, in their shirtsleeves like baseball fans.

Mayor Curley was present in box with his mother, and Governor Walsh sent a telegram of congratulations. Lieutenant Governor was preceded by "The Star Spangled Banner," during which the house remained standing, and noiselessly left. The Boston Theatre, full of people, is very sensitive. It would be a pity if the night of their opening should go on its site. Perhaps they won't, if Lasky and company continue as they have begun.

SINGING OF HIGH ORDER.

The opera selected for the opening was Verdi's "Aida," a most gorgeous and brilliant of operatic spectacles. An opera company, which can do "Aida" well is capable of doing anything, and it means new ambitions and resolves. The Boston Theatre Company is to attempt it.

This company was made in Boston, even if it does not remain here. Mr. H. Lasky is a Boston man, the orchestra leader and chorus singers are residents, and members of the Boston Opera Company. The male chorus includes several who have appeared on last season for Hammerstein's opera which did not materialize, and some former members of the Metropolitan chorus. One of the chief singers last night, Florence Hamilton, also is a Boston girl. The company was organized here and belongs here.

The performance is given at half with the prices charged. I think everybody present got their money's worth. It must be considered in criticising the company that it is playing for half its price during the run of the Metropolitan and Boston Operas.

Under the circumstances, it would be, to say the least, remarkable if the chorus is not numerically strong and vocally excellent. Last night in "Aida" and one might wish the orchestra contained more strings in several places, but the singing, in spite of a high order, especially on the part of the women, and the work of the chorus before us as we know him in every experience. Mr. Lasky himself, as Captain Pennington, U. S. M., is sufficiently picturesque and manly to make us glad that he has captured him at last. Miss Marion Tanner as Delores Pennington is sympathetic and acts and sings well. Mr. Coffey gives us the humors of the fashionable but plebeian dressmaker.

Modern Theatre.

Ethel Harrymore's charm and personality, combined with her ability to act, was never so apparent as it is in Rachel Crothers' new theatre-goers' five-reel photo-drama, which is the feature attraction at the entire week at the Modern Theatre.

Grand Opera House.

Fun was at its height yesterday at the Grand Opera House, where the Rambler Burlesquers are giving a show of exceptional merit. Hazel Crosby, Ada Lang, Florence Campbell, Al K. Hall, Joe Morris and others contributed to the enjoyment of the bill. Pretty girls ornamented the stage and sang most effectively and wore the most becoming gowns.

Howard Athenaeum.

Harry Cooper and the famous Crackerjack Burlesquers were on hand yesterday at the Howard Athenaeum to present a burlesque feast to all patrons. The burlesque was entitled, "The Cloud Man." In it Harry Cooper, the clever eccentric German comedian; Cecile Dunham, classic dancer; Teddy Dupont and twenty-five charming chorus girls.

CASTLES HEAD BILL THIS WEEK AT B. F. KEITH'S

By MERTON E. BURKE.

Never in have seen the Vernon Castles—Mr. and Mrs.—as clever as they are this week.

One realizes this the instant the Castles begin their interpretation of the famous Argentine dance which, for the past year or two, has occasioned so much criticism.

If the undesirable features of the dance as exhibited by the Castles in the dance at Keith's Theatre, where they are making their bow in vaudeville, they must be invisible to the naked eye, for human suppers and the annual glee club dance.

To begin with, the Castles are a surprise as to personality.

For one minute they make their appearance you like them. They are captivating. They are both tall and slender and marvelously graceful. Mr. Castle is graceful without being effeminate.

Last evening they gave the new fox trot, the half and half and Lame Duck, the one step, the tango, and as a windup the old-fashioned waltz, but a new guise, as a finale and after all it made from the audience they gave the maxixe.

Pausing for a moment from the rapidfire succession of dances, a series of imitations seen in a long time. Sime Silverman and Lewis Hart offer a side-splitting monologue. John and Berlia Gleeson and Fred Hamilton offer novel clog and other dancing.

Others on the bill are Edward Marshall & Company, in musical novelty; Mr. Schmack, rapid change artist; Henry Catalano, violin and cello; Bessie and they write themselves; Chris Richards, xylophone; Rolland Chan, and the Welling-Levering troupe of comedy cyclists.

Castle Square Theatre.

"A little widow be a dangerous thing" is the old saw known, in "Widow by Proxy," a farce comedy produced by the Castle Square Stock Company yesterday, Miss Mary Young shows us just why.

Miss Katherine Chisholm Cushing's diverting three-act farce was written for Miss May Irwin, but last night at the Castle Square there was ample evidence that it was not written for Miss May Young herself.

Imitations of imitations of Weber & Fields have made the comic Dutchman somewhat of a nuisance on the bill. Mr. Hawley manages to infuse freshness into it and, with a hundred little touches, convulses the audience so as we know him in every experience. Mr. Hawley, as Captain Pennington, U. S. M., is sufficiently picturesque and manly to make us glad that Miss Mayo captured him at last. Miss Marion Tanner as Delores Pennington is sympathetic and acts well. Mr. Frank Coffey gives us the humors of the fashionable but plebeian dressmaker.

Owes Her Life to This Lung Medicine

The manufacturers of Kennedy's Asthmine, a medicine for Throat and Lung affections, state that all sufferers of Throat and Lung trouble do not take the trouble to investigate the merits of a medicine before it is accomplished during the last fifteen years in a number of cases. Read this:

"Gentlemen:—About September 18, 1908, my daughter, Miss Mabel Hall, was taken with pneumonia, which developed into Lung Trouble. She was under the care of Dr. Wm. Mellish, Church, at Schenectady, but, progressed from bad to worse. Consumption set in and I am positive I would have lost her had I not found Kennedy's Asthmine, and see if it would help her. I got a bottle from Mr. Mellish and declared she had Lung Trouble and was in the first stage of consumption. Asthmine gave her the first relief she had received. She took two bottles and was entirely cured. I have not had a doctor in my house since, and I am positive that it is the Asthmine, which she still takes at times, that saved her life. I am glad to tell you that she is now perfectly well and strong, and weighs 140 pounds, twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before. Yours truly, (Signed) JOS. GRIMMER.

Kennedy's Asthmine is most effectious in relieving and curing all Throat and Lung affections, and without using the stomach. Contains no harmful or habit forming drugs. Accept no substitutes; see that you get the genuine. 25c, 50c, $1.00; regular size, $1.00; economical size, $2.00. Sold by druggists. "WHIRL OF THE WORLD" OPENS AT SHUBERT

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

The drama of short skirts and silk stockings arrived at the Shubert last evening. Since Whirl of the World arrived from the Winter Garden, Broadway, about "The Whirl of the World" compels the frank admission that it was mostly girls—supported, to be sure, by a large group of plump soubrettes and more than the usual number of good dancers. In fact, you are assured that the epidemic of modern dancing that glutted the air and seemed to be making progress this Fall. For a generous evening's entertainment The World mislaid its plot early in the evening. After that things just turn along as they kind of please, revealing much that pleased the eye and little that offended.

More pretentious than any of its Winter Garden predecessors, "The Whirl of the World" gives the show a full measure of entertainment. The costuming was lavish, tasteful and cheerful and in good taste. The display of feminine charms that appeared to be the chief aim in preparing the scenes and in many instances in musical comedy was utilized freely and with discretion. Some of the girls have impatiently passed through the boreleggers period of musical entertainment and have taken to more attractive season of fluff and silk.

Among the entertainers who contributed a full share of labor were Willie Howard and Eva Fallon. Howard is funny without straining himself. His impersonations of the "nut" were clever and original. Miss Fallon is capable of better things than the author has provided. John T. Murray supplied the comedy of the evening.

There was a wealth of good dancing in "The Whirl of the World," in which George Moon and Daniel Morgan inspired enthusiasm. Miss Morgan probably believe possible. The real top of the dancing events, however, was contributed by Lucille Cavanaugh and Wyeth Parker. Miss Cavanaugh had grace, agility and style. She was a picture worth looking at. A dainty young woman called Chance she appeared as the central feminine figure in the brutally mutilated plot, and in this role she showed that she has nothing to do, made an attractive addition to the company.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Schoen's Rough House School Kids gave a school feature at the Bowdoin Square theatre yesterday that displayed with the most wholesome effect. The act, called "The spitfire," was thoroughly enjoyed.

Criminal Prosecution of New Haven Thieves—of Course

And the Bigger the Men, the More Energetic the Prosecution Should Be. ROBBING WOMEN IS CERTAINLY A CRIME.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

Some of the newspapers announce, as though it were extremely surprising, that there MAY be "criminal prosecution of the New Haven scoundrels."

Of COURSE there should be criminal prosecution.

New Haven Railroad stock was worth more than two hundred dollars a share. Its earnings were so great that it was difficult to spend them legitimately, even after paying big dividends.

Then a collection of eminently respectable Wall Street thieves got hold of that railroad. They robbed every stockholder. They robbed the public of their lives, killing scores in accidents brought about by bad equipment.

The New Haven Railroad was robbed in every conceivable way. AND THE PRESIDENT OF THE RAILROAD, MR. MELLEN, HAS TESTIFIED TO THE FACT.

Scores of women had their fortunes tied up in New Haven stock, considered SO SAFE.

These women were robbed just as though a burglar had broken into their houses and taken their property.

Why should a thief go free because he is very rich and "eminently respectable"?

Why should the biggest man in Wall Street stay out of jail when it is perfectly clear that he is a thief and should be in jail with the others?

Is not a rich man guilty of theft MORE criminal than the poor man with his great temptation and dire necessity?

Of COURSE there should be criminal prosecution of the New Haven Railroad thieves. The prosecution should be aimed at every man who has been responsible for the mismanagement of that road. Those that were innocent—merely fools and careless, permitting others to steal—should stay out of prison, BUT THEY SHOULD HAVE TO PAY ALL THEY CAN IN THE WAY OF ATONEMENT.

Those that carried on the thieving—and Mellen can name them—those that sold the worthless properties that the railroad bought, all the gang of elaborate, conscienceless, modern criminals developed by the system of privately owned railroads, should be identified, prosecuted AND PUT IN JAIL.

There ought to be not the slightest question about it. This country has had enough of the days in which stealing was perfectly safe if it was on a sufficiently big scale.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The estimated cost of the Boylston street subway, Dorchester tunnel and East Boston tunnel extension, about four and one-third miles, is $11,500,000?

No Better Man Than George W. Anderson for United States Attorney Could Be Found in Massachusetts

The selection of George W. Anderson to be United States Attorney for the District of Massachusetts could not be bettered from any of the available material in this Commonwealth.

There have been various attempts to make the public believe that Mr. Anderson did not have the approval of the Democratic delegation in Congress. It is true that most of the Democratic members of Congress from Massachusetts did endorse the candidacy of Mr. Sullivan of Salem and in Mr. Sullivan they selected a man whose ability, experience and integrity were equal to the position. But to say that they have opposed Mr. Anderson is wholly untrue. It would have been most ungracious, un-Democratic, unfaithful and stupid to have opposed a man of Mr. Anderson's unusual ability, rectitude, fearlessness and general public and Democratic service.

Mr. Anderson was appointed on the Railroad Commission by Governor Foss at the request of those independent men in this community who had the sense and the courage to understand and to oppose the great railroad conspiracy hatched in Wall Street which was ruining New England. This independent element in the community wanted a man on the Railroad Commission who had the capacity and courage to represent the public interests against all the influences which powerful corporations can bring to bear.

Mr. Anderson fulfilled the most optimistic expectations of those who urged his appointment upon Governor Foss. He was driven from the Railroad Commission by that wretched band of lobbyists whose fell but lucrative practice Mr. Anderson's authority was menacing. They did to Mr. Anderson what twenty years before they did to John T. Wheelwright on the Gas and Electric Light Commission.

The AMERICAN has already told the story, but it is worth repeating because it gives the public an idea of the attacks to which an honest public official is exposed from these agents of corruption. It also gives the public some idea of the utter impotence of their representatives in the Legislature to protect the public interests and how almost at any time the authority of their representatives is used to strike down an upright public servant and to deprive the public of his service and protection.

This is the story which shows how history repeats itself in the struggle between the public interests and the big private interests. Twenty years ago, the Gas and Electric Light Commission had become a farce. Its authority was used merely to protect extortion. Governor Russell, seeking to restore the commission to some power to protect the public interests, appointed John

Guide Your Children Over Perilous Paths of Youth

It Is Appalling to Know How Many Young Boys Have Distorted Minds Through Lack of Parental Instruction—Be the Confidant and Instructor of Your Children

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1914, by Star Company.

AGAIN let it be urged that parents talk with their small children on the subjects which lead to, or away from, morality and physical health. It is rank folly to declare your child so angelic and innocent that it is immune from danger.

Human nature is its own menace, when not guided by wise affection over the perilous paths of youth.

Take your little son, sir and madam, when he is able to understand simple language, and tell him about the flowers; how they grow, bud, blossom and bear fruit. Take your little girl of the same age, and let her listen to what you have to say on this topic; but talk to them separately, in order that they may feel how sacred the subject is, and that you are the only confidantes they are to have in this matter.

Impress upon them the idea that the plant needs to be carefully tended, and gently used, or it will never carry out its mission; that the bud and blossom will be blighted by careless handling, and the fruit spoiled. Then make them understand that their bodies are plants, which the great Creator intends for the same process.

Say to them, "All this knowledge about the flowers you will study and obtain gradually as you grow older and your mind develops; and in the same way you will learn the wonderful majestic truths of the human family.

"All that you can know now is the sacredness of your body and the need to keep it clean, in good health, and pure.

If any one ever approaches you to talk on this subject in any rough manner, or to suggest your listening to any information which your parents might not hear, or if any one attempts any familiarity toward you which you do not understand, run away from such a person as you would from a dangerous animal.

"Never say or do or listen to anything you could not have all the world hear. Never take gifts from anyone you do not know; never walk into secluded places or vacant houses with any one save your parents or other relatives. It is an evidence of a lack of good bringing up to do such things; and never permit any one to talk to you on these subjects save your parents. As your mind unfolds we will explain all life's mysteries to you."

Children who have been reared in this wise and judicious manner will not be victims to the monsters in human form who so frequently pursue the innocent and immature; and young boys who are so tenderly instructed by considerate and sensible parents will not develop abnormal tendencies or become a menace to society.

Almost any child is in danger of being harmed mentally or physically through ignorance, which is mistaken for innocence by most parents. It is appalling to know the number of cases where young, unformed minds have been smirched by evil communications, and where even physical disaster have befallen children through the lack of parental forethought and prevention.

It is appalling to know how many young boys have distorted minds through the same cause; lack of parental instruction; and the last people to know of the wrong thoughts and actions of these boys are the parents themselves. And even with the strongest proof the parents often refuse to believe the unpleasant facts when they are confronted with them.

One schoolmaster in New Jersey was almost driven from the community recently because he went in a kindly spirit to talk confidentially with parents regarding the behavior of their boys.

Do not add yourself, my dear sir or madam, to the long list of such parents. Become the friend and confidant and instructor of your little human plants, and prepare the fallow ground for their growing and rich maturity.

THE MYSTIC

By CONSTANCE CLARKE

I DID not see my love today,
And when I walked alone
Out where the marigolds were gay,
Flaunting their joy across my way,
My heart was turned to stone.

Then dreaming through the gray twilight
Above the shivering trees,
I heard my heart beat quick and bright
At vagrant thoughts of just last night,
And if my love came every night
What good were memories?

T. Wheelwright, a prominent lawyer of Boston, upon this board. Mr. Wheelwright immediately began to stop the wild orgy of stock watering which was then rampant among our gas and electric light companies. Stock watering, as we all know, is a device of the public service corporations for extorting high prices from the public.

The gas and electric light companies became alarmed at Mr. Wheelwright's activity and determined to force him off the board. They knew that Mr. Wheelwright could not afford to give up the profits of his private practice, which were much greater than the salary he received as a member of the Gas and Electric Light Commission. Therefore, they passed a law requiring the Electric Light Commissioners to give their whole time to their work, and Mr. Wheelwright was obliged to resign. Then the Gas and Electric Light Commission returned to its old supineness, until its inaction had become so scandalous that Governor Guild determined to reorganize the board, appointing another man like Mr. Wheelwright. He could not get such a man who would give up his private business for the small salary and the uncertain tenure of the office. He was therefore obliged to insist that the law requiring the commissioners to give their whole time to the office be repealed. He was thereby enabled to obtain the services of Mr. Alonzo Weed and the commission has, since the appointment of Mr. Weed, been restored to public confidence.

THE SAME TRICK WAS SUCCESSFULLY PLAYED UPON MR. ANDERSON.

But the national government has taken up the stone which our Massachusetts builders have stupidly rejected.
